10			Extended training duration. More comprehensive hands-on practical exercises. Practical application of AI and IT tools in daily judicial work. Separate, comfortable dining facility for Purdah-observing female participants.	Good	50%	75%	50%	The training programme should include more practical and field-oriented modules directly related to our daily judicial and administrative responsibilities. Greater emphasis should be placed on hands-on exercises demonstrating how AI and IT tools can assist in drafting orders and judgments, analysing case records, legal research and court management. The training duration should be extended to ensure sufficient practical learning. Furthermore, laptops should be upgraded to meet current technological requirements, and all necessary software and applications should be provided. A separate and comfortable dining facility should also be arranged for female participants, ensuring their comfort and convenience.
